Screen TIME

It isn't unusual for films buffs to get a sneak peek at a film a day before its release. But the screening for Tara's latest film was held for a select audience more than three weeks after it hit theatres. The event was attended by politicians and celebrities. The lead actor of the film, Bhavana, was seen interacting with the guests at the do. The male lead Kishore, however, was missing in action. We also spotted the director of the film, Paragur Ramchander, at the bash basking in the compliments he received for his work.
